Town frowns on video mania

The Appomattox Town Council voted Monday night to refuse a request for a change in the ordinance regulating game rooms in the town limits.

The ordinance prohibits game rooms from operating from 11 a.m. Saturday until 7 a.m. Monday and from midnight to 7 a.m. during the week.

At the March Council meeting, representatives of Burger King and Quick-E Food Store appeared before the town's governing body to ask that the ordinance be changed to allow video games to be used during the businesses' normal operating hours.

Councilman Dick Bass and Ray Noble expressed concern over the video craze, noting that some children play at the video games with a vigor which borders on addiction.

Councilman Tommy Lawson said he feels the children are the responsibility of their parents, and that the Town Council should not attempt to legislate morality.

The council voted to refuse the request for a change in the game room ordinance, with Lawson casting the lone dissenting vote.

In other business, council members voted to accept a bid from Consumers-Dornin Adams, Inc., for repairing the roof of the fire departmemnt and the town hall. The bid was for $5,245.

Council members also reviewed a letter from the Historic Appomattox Station Arts and Crafts Center expressing concern that that organization might have to leave the railroad depot in the event that a mini-mall is developed there. Town council voted to renew the HASACCS lease on a month-by-month basis.

Council members also voted to offer their continued support for the Route 460 bypass project which the state has planned for Appomattox. The bypass project will be one of several proposed projects to be discussed at a public hearing in the Lynchburg District of the highway department today (Thursday) at 1:30.

State Sen. Howard Anderson and Del. Claude Anderson will be on hand at the meeting.

Horace Coleman is named to select group

By FRANCES H. PAULETTE

Horace Wilder Coleman, Jr., Pamplin, has been nominated as representative in the 59th House District as one of the Silver Haired Legislators who will go to the State Capitol in August to take part in Virginia's first Silver Haired Legislature.

The Silver Haired Legislature is modeled after the Virginia General Assembly. There will be 40 senators, and 100 delegates who will be representing districts identical to those of the General Assembly. The Silver Haired Legislators will run for office and be elected for one year by their peers. They will attend committee meetings and meet in full and joint session at the capitol to consider issues of importance to the elderly and to all Virginians. These legislative issues will be presented to the governor and the General Assembly.

Coleman who lives at Seven Springs Farm in Pamplin is a member of the Appomattox County Board of Supervisors from the Clover Hill District and is seeking reelection in this fall's election as an Independent.

Currently serving as chairman of the board, Coleman was elected as board member in November of 1979. He is active in public and community service in Appomattox County and in Central Virginia. He is vice chairman of the Appomattox County Planning Commission, chairman of the Central Virginia Commission on Aging, member of the Human Resources Policy Committee on the National Association of Regional Councils and members of the Appomattox County Developmental Corporation.

In addition Coleman has served as president of the Pamplin Chapter of Retired Persons and chaplain of the Southside Masonic Lodge.

Coleman is very much involved in development of the county's long term plan for elderly care, as mandated by Senate Bill 219 last year.

How are Silver Haired Legislators chosen? Individuals 60 years old or older and a registered voter run for office by submitting petitions signed by residents of their districts who are 60 or older. Candidates names are then placed on ballots and older Virginians will use special, mail-in ballots to cast their votes for Silver Haired Senators and Delegates. The Virginia Department for the Aging will tabulate the votes and the newly elected Silver Haired Legislators will be announced May 18, during Older Americans Month.

Once the candidates are elected they will be required to attend one day training event covering the legislative process, logistics during the "Session" in Richmond and responsibilities of a Silver Haired Legislator.

Horace W. Coleman, Jr.

Silver Haired Legislators will receive information from VDA concerning the training prior to the event. Candidates will be expected to work with the AAA and obtain a working knowledge of the most pressing issues affecting their "constituents." Silver Haired Legislators will serve a one year term for this first session. After the actual session, Silver Haired Legislators will be expected to continue in the role of educating and promoting the interest of older Virginians.

If you are 60 years old or older and a registered voter and would like to vote for Virginia's Silver Haired Legislature candidates, a ballot request form may be obtained from the office of the Clerk of Appomattox County.

Towns to get funds

Appomattox and Pamplin have received portions of a grant to help pay for assistance in applying for community development grants in the future.

Bill Hibbert, director of the Central Virginia Planning District Commission says that the funds are part of $4,320 allotment which will be divided between the towns of Pamplin, Appomattox, Altavista and Amherst, and the county of Amherst.

"The money will be used for providing technical assistance in preparing Virginia Community Development block grant applications in the future," Hibbert says.

Such technical assistance will include information regarding the state's fund distribution plan. The money will also be used to help compile necessary date to adequately meet application submission requirements, and to restructure local project descriptions to more completely conform to state grant application requirements.

The big winners in the block-grant allocation plan were Amherst County, which received $9,870, and Altavista, which received $9,110 for a downtown-revitalization study.

Appomattox County applied with Bedford and Campbell Counties for funds to be used for industrial development research. Appomattox County's share of the $25,000 total which was asked in the grant applicaiton would have been $7,000.

However, tri-county application lost by a narrow margin in the competition for public funds. The funds are allocated according to various established need criteria based on information from the census and other sources.

Lions Club will meet tonight

The Appomattox Lions Club will meet on April 14 at 6:45 p.m. at the Country Fare Restaurant.

The program will be presented by the Dale Carnegie Institute.

Members are urged to make plans to attend.

If May flowers are in proportion to April showers, the USA will be one giant flower garden this year. However, most gardens are late getting started. Our sympathies go out to so many families in our nation losing property and homes by flooding.

About midday Sunday I saw an Army convoy in Appomattox and when they stopped for a break at a couple of local eating places I took advantage of the opportunity to check. A unit of National Guardsmen from the Christiansburg area had been at Camp Pickett. A fine group and here's a salute to National Guard.

Bit of humor: a Sunday School teacher was explaining the Book of Judges account of the strength of Samson. One five year old pupil waved excitedly and said, "I know him. His first name is Ralph and he plays basketball."

Mrs. Helen Gunter visited us and brought a large stack of clippings from the Richmond Times-Dispatch of the 1930's era, same being editorial page columns by the late Thomas Lomax Hunter. Hunter wrote under the heading "As It Appears To The Cavalier." I am enjoying reading this collection. Ah yes, and Mrs. Gunter also brought a pumpkin pie. Thanks, too, to her brother, Ralph Barlow.

You have heard it said that in life often the innocent have to pay for the misdeeds of another. My windowside bird feeder is one of the active spots on Martha Street. For two days I put up with an oddball sparrow who was not interested in food, but instead flew as hard as he could against the glass windowpane. The impact would knock him to the ground, but over and over again, he wanted inside the house! Not knowing what else to do, without violence, I stopped putting smallbird seed in the feeder. Result: no birds and innocents are going hungry. Ain't it a shame.

Never saw so many violets. Big area in my backyard is covered with blooming violets, but the largest area of blooming violets have seen was in the lawn at St. Anne's Church.

Asked my friend, Lloyd Vaughan about his garden and like the rest of us, he is late due to weather. As I write, a stiff wind is blowing and will help dry out garden spots. Being discouraged reminds one of the Mexican Jumping Bean inside a watermelon. Not being discouraged reminds one of the athlete who was told he had a fever of 103°. "What's the record, I'll try to beat it."

U.S. Achievement Academy

Sweet named to national board

The United States Achievement Academy announced today that Mrs. Joyce Sweet, a teacher at the Appomattox County High School has been named to the Academy's National Advisory Board.

The USAA National Advisory Board is composed of select teachers throughout the nation who support the Academy's endeavors to recognize achievement. The National Advisory Board will advise the Academy, evaluate scholarships and honors programs, and support the activities of the USAA.

Mrs. Joyce Sweet joins more than 700 teachers nationwide in serving on the USAA National Advisory Board. This year, more then 40,000 teachers have nominated over 400,000 students for the Academy honors and scholarship programs. The select group of teachers on the National Advisory Board will serve these programs in an advisory capacity.

USAA is an organization whose stated purpose is to recognize the achievements of America's outstanding young people. The USAA is currently accepting nominations and recognizing outstanding achievements in the following areas: agriculture, art, band, basketball, business education, cheerleading, English, football, foreign languages, history and government, home economics, journalism, leadership merit, leadership service, mathmetics, physical education, science, speech and drama, spring sports, student council, and student government.

Any student or parent interested in the USAA honor and scholarship program should contact their teacher. To be eligible students must excell in one of the aforementioned areas of achievement, fulfill the USAA standards for selection and be nominated by a teacher.

Interested teachers, students or parents should write for more information to: United States Achievement Academy, 2570 Palumbo Drive, Lexington, KY 40509

Railroad enthusiasts get treat Saturday

A round-trip railway excursion is slated for this Saturday, April 16, with stops from Crewe to Roanoke, including Appomattox. The excursion is sponsored by the Tidewater Chapter of the National Railway Historical Society.

The Crewe-to-Roanoke leg of the run will be pulled by the famous Norfolk and Western class 'J' steam locomotive, Number 611.

Built in 1950, the engine was retired after nine years of service and put on display. It was rebuilt and returned to service in 1982.

The excursion train will consist of several types of passengers coaches, including open window and passenger cars. Snacks and souvenirs will be available, but picnic lunches will be welcome. No alcoholic beverages will be allowed. The excursion will run rain or shine.

The train will leave Crewe at 9 a.m. and arrive in Appomattox at 10. It will leave Appomattox at 10:15 and arrive in Lynchburg at 10:45. It will leave Lynchburg at 11 and arrive in Bedford at 11.50. It will leave Bedford at noon and arrive in Roanoke at 12:45.

The return trip will begin after an approximate two-hour layover in Roanoke. The excursion train pulled on the second leg of its run by a diesel engine, is scheduled to arrive in Appomattox on the return trip at approximately 4:45.

Tickets can be purchased for round-trip rides or one-way rides. Cost of the tickets is determined by how far the rider goes. The basic cost is five dollars per stop. For example, if a rider wants a one-way ticket to Lynchburg, the cost is $10. Cost of a round-trip ticket from Appomattox to Roanoke and back is $30.

Tickets may be purchased from Johnny Taylor at Appomattox Hardware, from Trains Unlimited in Lynchburg, or at the depot on the day of the excursion.

School Board to meet Wednesday

The Appomattox County School Board will meet next Wednesday (April 20) at 3:30 p.m. in the school board office on Main Street.

Along with the regular monthly reports and presentations, board members will consider school renovation project change orders, bid quotations, and a revised evaluation program for instructional personnel.
